We cannot convince those who do not call upon upon us and examine our wares, that they are the Blind who won't see, but those who do come and critically examine our stock are easily convinced of the superiority of our Clothing, made mostly by Wanamaker, of Philadelphia. We claim superiority in style and in workmanship.

As to prices, we believe, from a pretty clear knowledge of what is being done around us, that we are always "lower than the lowest" in Washington, and at this time of year our prices do not stand in the way of a sale. We don't mean that "no reasonable offer will be refused," for we make our own prices and have but one, but we mean that we have cut down prices to the point where any reasonable man will be satisfied.
